

君の名は [Your Name] "Fan-made Screenplay" Original Story and Film by Makoto Shinkai Rewritten in English by Jake Gao gaojake.com gaoyjake@gmail.com ii. I want to make it clear that I wrote this with my own time, and without permission from the original filmmakers and producers. As a screenwriting major in Los Angeles, I really wanted to read the screenplay to my favorite movie, Your Name, but I couldn't find a copy of it anywhere (Japanese or English). So I came up with the bright idea to write my own! This project was super fun for me as I was able to really study the movie and its details. It also serves as fun writing practice, a way to force myself to write everyday, and something to serve up as a sample of my writing style. I hope that you all enjoy the read, and please feel free to critique me and point out any mistakes-- format, spelling, or grammatical-- as it'll help me improve my future projects! Thank you so much and keep dreaming! -Jake. ii. Original story by Makoto Shinkai1. Rewritten by Jake Gao

1. EXT. ITOMORI - SKY - NIGHT

We are so high sky that sunlight still peaks over the horizon, bouncing off the tops of clouds. Meteorites glow red as they fall towards Earth. Many fragments disintegrate in the atmosphere, but the largest piece dives into the clouds. The sound of wind whistles as the camera tracks the falling comet. The comet bursts through the cloud cover, revealing a darkened prefecture surrounding a large lake. We watch as the comet descends onto Itomori.

HITOA

No thank you, you can have them.

Mitsuha jogs in, dressed in her school uniform.

YOTSUHA

Mitsuha, you're late!

MITSUHA

I'll make breakfast tomorrow.

Mitsuha serves herself some rice, familiar with the

15. INT. CLASSROOM - LATER

Everyone sits in their individual seats. The teacher, Yukari Yukino (27), passionate and friendly, writes on the chalkboard. Twilight, when it's neither day nor night. When the world blurs and one might encounter something not human. She turns back towards the chalkboard and writes another word down.

YUKINO

STUDENT

Question! Not "kataware-doki?"

YUKINO

Kataware-doki? I think that's a local dialect.

I've heard that Itomori's elderly still use classical language.

STUDENT

We're in the boonies, after all.

The kids laugh. Mitsuha, not paying attention, flips through the rest of her notebook, checking for other messages. She returns to original page. "WHO ARE YOU?"

YUKINO

Okay, next, Mitsuha.

19. INT. MIYAMIZU SHRINE - NIGHT

Mitsuha, Yotsuha, and their grandmother, Hitoha, sit on the tatami floor. The three wear traditional yukatas as they make braided cords. Yotsuha, being the youngest, rolls thread onto spools. Mitsuha and Hitoha uses different colored threads and a weaver to make intricate cords like the one in Mitsuha's hair. We see the meticulous process as spools moved and sticks are used to tighten the patterns.

HITOA

So we lost the meaning of our

21. EXT. MIYAMIZU SHRINE - TEMPLE - NIGHT

A small stage raised above the ground. Charms hang from the ceiling. Two torches give light to the surrounding area as people gather to see Mitsuha and Yotsuha, clad in shrine maiden attire, perform a dance. The fire crackles. No one makes a sound. A soft beat of a drum, and a high-pitched, whistling melody play from a speaker to the side. Mitsuha and Yotsuha are perfectly synced, with bells in their right hand, and a red sash in the other. They dance, flicking the bells and spinning slowly.

Mitsuha and Yotsuha unfold some wrapping paper to reveal cooked rice. The two use their right hands, perfectly synched, and place a small amount in their mouth. They chew softly.

TESSIE

It's the oldest sake in the world.

By chewing on rice, spitting it out, and letting it ferment, it becomes alcohol.

SAYAKA

"Kuchikamizake".

Do the gods appreciate sake made that way?

TESSIE

Of course they do.

In the back of the crowd, Kazuya and his harem, Naomi and Mami, arrive to the scene.

KAZUYA

Look, it's Miyamizu.

Mitsuha and Yotsuha let the chewed rice leak out of their mouths while covering their face with their long sleeves. It isn't enough to shield the action completely however, and the three classmates see her spitting it out.

YOTSUHA

Cheer up, Mitsuha.

MITSUHA

I envy your prepubescent lack of concern.

YOTSUHA

Why not sell lots of kuchikamizake and use the money to go to Tokyo?

MITSUHA

Where do you get such ideas?

YOTSUHA

Sell them with photos and making-of videos.

Name it "Shrine Maiden's Sake". You'll make money!
Mitsuha ponders the idea.

MITSUHA

Sayaka, and Tessie walk home.

Three girls from their school catch up to them, out of breath. The girl in the middle hands a love letter to Mitsuha.

MITSUHA (V.O.)

Taki, why is a girl in love with me? --Mitsuha gets another love confession from a male classmate.

Sayaka and Tessie watch from the shadows. Mitsuha takes the love letter, bored.

TAKI (V.O.)

HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

Yotsuha opens Mitsuha's door/ We see Mitsuha touching her breasts.

Beat.

YOTSUHA

You sure do like your boobs.

We're going now! Get ready! She slides the door closed.

LIVING ROOM - MOMENTS LATER

On TV, a reporter talks about the up-coming comet, Tiamat, with a meteorologist.

REPORTER

Comet Tiamat has been visible to the naked eye for a few days now.

METEOROLOGIST

Comet Tiamat is moving from east to west as if to follow the sun.

So it can be seen above Venus... The meteorologist points to a diagram on screen showing the trajectory. Mitsuha finally arrives, dressed for school, and sees Yotsuha and Hitoha sipping tea, waiting.

YOTSUHA

Why the uniform?

MITSUHA

Huh?

58. EXT. ITOMORI - DAY

A secluded trail leading up to the mountains. A calm stream flows alongside the footpath, and beautiful, orange leaves flow down the water. The surrounding trees have all turned orange and red for the fall season. Mitsuha, Yotsuha, and Hitoha walk along the path, shaded by the thick foliage.

YOTSUHA

(whining) Grandma, why is the vessel of our shrine's god so far away?

HITOA

You can thank Mayugoro for that.

Mitsuha whispers to Yotsuha.

MITSUHA

Who's that?

YOTSUHA

What? He's famous! Beat.

ITOMORI FOREST - LATER

Mitsuha (Taki) sweats from carrying her grandma uphill.

We see Itomori's lake in it's entirety.

HITOA

Mitsuha, Yotsuha, do you know
"Musubi"?

MITSUHA

Musubi?

HITOA

Musubi is the old term for calling the local guardian deity.

This word has profound meaning. Tying thread is Musubi. Connecting people is Musubi. The flow of time is Musubi. As they ascend in elevation, the forest around them changes. All the orange and red trees are gone, and we are left with tall evergreens with trunks as big as sequoias.

SHIMENAWA, THICK ROPE MADE OF HEMP TO WARD SPIRITS OF THE Shinto religion, are tied to the trunks.

HITOA

(CONT'D) The flow of time is Musubi. These are all the god's power. So the braided cords that we make are the god's art, and represent the flow of time itself. They converge and take shape. They twist, tangle, sometimes unravel, break, then connect again. They continue walking up the mountain, sunlight shining through gaps in the canopy.

HITOA

(CONT'D) Musubi: knotting. That's time.

MOUNTAINSIDE - LATER

The three break under a tree.

Hitoha pours Mitsuha a drink from her thermos.

Drink.

YOTSUHA

I want some, too!

HITOA

That's also Musubi.

Mitsuha hands Yotsuha her cup.

HITOA

(CONT'D) Whether it be water, rice, or sake, when a person consumes something and it joins their soul, that's Musubi. So today's offering is an important custom that connects the god and it's people.

59. MOUNTAINTOP - LATER

We are above the clouds. There are no trees in sight, only a few grasses and flowers between the rocks. The three are dwarfed by the size of the mountain. Yotsuha, the first to look over the top, excitedly slides down the other side.

YOTSUHA

Hey, I see it! Beat.

Mitsuha, awestruck by the view, puts Hitoha down.

MITSUHA

(to herself) The vessel of Miyamizu Shrine's god.

ELS OF THE MOUNTAIN. A HUGE

CRATER LIES AT THE VERY TOP,

creating a basin.

It's not deep like a volcano, but shallow and wide. As the camera pulls back to get a full view of the basin, Mitsuha, Yotsuha, and Hitoha grow smaller and smaller until they disappear from view. Grass and ponds cover inside the basin with a lone tree at the center. Beneath the tree, a small cave structure pokes out.

It means the underworld. Yotsuha happily hops across the stream, using rocks as stepping stones.

YOTSUHA

I'm in the underworld! Mitsuha steps in the water to help Hitoha move from rock to rock.

HITOA

In exchange for returning to this world, you must leave behind what is important to you.

MITSUHA

Huh?

HITOA

The kuchikamizake.

MITSUHA

Kuchikamizake? Hitoha hands
Mitsuha a small porcelain jar tied with a red bow.

The real Mitsuha's kuchikamizake.

HITOA

You'll offer it inside the god's vessel.

It's half of you. Mitsuha studies it.

MITSUHA (V.O.)

Half of Mitsuha...

We see them enter the cave, a giant boulder propped up on smaller rocks.

ITOMORI FOREST - - GOLDEN HOUR

The three make their way down the Taki watches her walk away.

67. EXT. TOKYO - BRIDGE - GOLDEN HOUR

Taki and Okudera arrive the same large bridge they always walk across on their way home. Cars pass underneath.

TAKI

Um, Miss Okudera.

Are you hungry? How about dinner? Okudera smiles.

OKUDERA

Let's call it a day.

TAKI

Oh-- okay...

They stop in the middle of the bridge.

OKUDERA

Taki, you...

Taki avoids eye contact.

OKUDERA

(CONT'D) Well either way, thanks for today. See you at work. Okudera walks off, leaving Taki on the bridge. Beat. The light changes as the sun sets. Drivers turn on their headlights. The sky darkens.

BRIDGE - LATER

Taki, still on the bridge, looks through Mitsuha's messages.

TAKI

By the time the date is over...

TAKI

(CONT'D) The comet will be visible in the sky.

MITSUHA (V.O.)

The comet will be visible in the sky.

MITSUHA

(melancholy) Oh, it's you, Tessie. (beat) No, I just didn't feel like going, that's all. I'm fine. (beat) What? The festival? Well... Oh, yea, the comet.

Today's the peak of its brightness, isn't it? Okay, got it. Later, then.

69. EXT. ITOMORI - NIGHT

Shops are lined up selling food, snacks, and sparklers. Families walk around enjoying the event. Some women wear yukatas.

VENDING MACHINE - SAME TIME

SAYAKA

MITSUHA

Looks kinda funny, huh.

ITOMORI - LATER

The three walk along a quiet road.

Rice fields spread across the land around them. Mitsuha walks ahead, alone. Sayaka and Tessie follow a few paces behind.

TESSIE

TSUKASA

Itomori? No way...

OKUDERA

Is it where that comet...?

The screeching of birds. Caution tape flaps in the wind. Cracked concrete, overgrown with weeds and vines, surround the school. Taki runs to the fence. Looks over the cliff down at the town. Itomori is destroyed. A huge crater, connected to Lake Itomori, rests where the town once stood. Water from the lake fills the new, smaller crater as crushed buildings, bridges, and cars rot away, partially submerged. Taki, Okudera, and Tsukasa stand in front of the dilapidated school. Nakata from the ramen shop stands by his car, smoking a cigarette.

TSUKASA

He's still reading articles on Itomori.

Newspapers and magazines from back then. Whatever he can find. Drink in hand, Tsukasa sits beside Okudera. He stares at her.

OKUDERA

What?

TSUKASA

Nothing.

I didn't know you smoked.

I had quit, but... Original story by Makoto Shinkai70. Rewritten by Jake Gao Original story by Makoto Shinkai71. Rewritten by Jake Gao

TSUKASA

What do you think about Taki's story? Okudera takes a small drag.

OKUDERA

I liked him.

Tsukasa sits up, surprised.

OKUDERA

(CONT'D) The way he was recently... He was always a nice guy, but even more so lately. Like he was trying too hard. It was cute. Tsukasa stares at his drink.

OKUDERA

(CONT'D) What he's saying doesn't make sense to me... A few motel residents walk by in robes. Cheers from the people behind the walls ring loudly.

OKUDERA

(CONT'D) But I'm sure he met someone, and that someone changed him. That much is for sure.

HOTEL ROOM - NIGHT

Taki reads newspapers and magazines about Itomori.

He checks his phone diary again-- no entries. Hands trembling, he rests his head on the table, exhausted. Beat.

TAKI

(to himself) It was all just a dream. I recognized the scenery because I remembered the news from three years ago. If not that, then... a ghost? No... was I delusional? He raises his head. Suddenly worried.

TAKI

(CONT'D) Her name... What was it? Original story by Makoto Shinkai71. Rewritten by Jake Gao Original story by Makoto Shinkai72. Rewritten by Jake Gao A knock on the door. Okudera walks in wearing the same bathrobe that the other residents wore earlier.

OKUDERA

Tsukasa went to take a bath.

TAKI

Oh, Okudera.

I, uh... I've been saying such strange things. Thank you for coming along today. Okudera puts her toiletries in her backpack. She shakes her head. "No problem".

CUT TO:

MOMENTS LATER

Taki and Okudera read through an Itomori magazine.

Pictures of braided cords fill the pages with the title, "THE BRAIDED CORDS OF ITOMORI".

OKUDERA

Braided cords.

How pretty. Is that a braided cord you're wearing?
Taki, sipping tea, looks at his wrist. Mitsuha's braided cord still wrapped around it.

TAKI

Oh, this...

I think someone gave it to me a long time ago. I wear it sometimes as a good luck charm... who was it?
Beat. Taki stares at the cord.

OKUDERA

Why don't you go take a bath, too?

TAKI

Yea.

(beat) No. He stares at the braid, as if seeing it for the first time. Original story by Makoto Shinkai⁷². Rewritten by Jake Gao Original story by Makoto Shinkai⁷³. Rewritten by Jake Gao

TAKI

(CONT'D) Someone who makes braided cords once told me the cords represent the flow of time itself. The threads twist, tangle, unravel, and connect again.
That's time... Beat. Taki remembers.

TAKI

(CONT'D) Maybe at that place... Taki moves the books aside and pulls out a map of Itomori's topography.

Okudera looks at him, worried.

CUT TO:

LATER

Tsukasa and Okudera sleep soundly in their futons.

Taki sleeps at the desk. The map spread out in front of him. We see circles drawn on the map along with the words, "AROUND

HERE???" . A BLACK PEN LIES

CENTIMETERS FROM HIS HAND.

Mitsuha's voice appears, very quiet at first, but it gradually grows louder.

Her voice echoes in Taki's mind.

MITSUHA (V.O.)

Taki...

Taki... Taki... Suddenly, her voice becomes crystal clear. Like she is talking right beside Taki's ear.

MITSUHA (V.O.)

Don't you remember me? Taki's eyes shoot open.

He looks at the braided cord around his wrist.

86. INT/EXT. CAR - MOVING - DAY

Taki rides with Nakata in a small buggy. They drive up a steep mountain road. The cloudy sky predicts rain as they pass rubble and destroyed buildings.

Taki tries to find the location on his phone GPS.

87. EXT. ITOMORI FOREST - LATER

Nakata stops the car at the entrance to a small trail leading up the mountain. He hands a lunchbox to Taki.

NAKATA

Eat this when you're hungry.

Taki kindly accepts.

NAKATA

(CONT'D) Your drawing of Itomori... it was good.

MOUNTAINSIDE - MOMENTS LATER

The scenery is similar to when Mitsuha, Yotsuha, and Hitoha hiked up to see the shrine god, but the red and orange leaves are replaced with lush, green ones.

Thunder rumbles as Taki walks up the path. It starts to rain-- hard. Taki runs to shelter beneath a large rock. He maps out his route and eats Nakata's lunch. He stares at Mitsuha's braided cord.

88. MOUNTAINTOP - LATER

Taki makes it to the top edges of the crater. The shallow basin and the god's shrine lies beneath him.

TAKI

It's really there! It wasn't just a dream! He wipes his eyes, both from rain and from tears, and makes his descent into the basin.

BASIN - MOMENTS LATER

A light, steady rainfall and fog surround Taki as he arrives at the river that separates the underworld from the overworld.

TAKI

Beyond this is the underworld.

He steps into the river and wades his way through. The water reaching up to his elbows.

89. INT. CAVE SHRINE - LATER

Crude, stone steps lead the way down. An old rope, serving as a handrail, barely fights off the rot and decay. Taki arrives at a small shrine in the back of the cave. Two sealed vases, containing Mitsuha and Yotsuha's sake, sit preserved on the stone platform. Mold and fungus grow on them.

TAKI

It's the sake we brought.

He shines his phone flashlight on the vase to the right.

TAKI

(CONT'D) ...and this is Mitsuha's. He picks up Mitsuha's sake. Original story by Makoto Shinkai75. Rewritten by Jake Gao Original story by Makoto Shinkai76. Rewritten by Jake Gao (CONT'D) Before the comet struck... so the Mitsuha I know is from three years ago? Our timelines were out of step. He uncorks the vase.

TAKI

(CONT'D) This is half of her... Taki pours out some sake. It's nice and clear.

TAKI

(CONT'D) Musubi. If time can really be turned back, give me one last chance... He downs the sake. Beat. He stands slowly, phone in hand. Taki slips and falls on the wet stone. As he falls, the phone flashlight in his hand illuminates the cave ceiling.

TAKI (V.O.)

A comet! An old cave painting of a comet reflects the phone's light.

crawling to Yotsuha, bawling-- it's quite a frightful sight.

MITSUHA

(CONT'D) Yotsuha!!! Yotsuha slams the door in Yotsuha, dressed for school, consults her grandma.

YOTSUHA

Mitsuha has finally lost it.

YOTSUHA

She's lost it.
She's completely lost it. Scary.

LIVING ROOM - MOMENTS LATER

The news on the TV talks about the comet.

ANCHOR

Comet Tiamat has been visible to the naked eye for a few days now.

Good morning, Mitsuha.

(beat) Oh? You're not Mitsuha, are you?

MITSUHA

(shocked) You knew, Grandma?

HITOA

No, but watching the way you've behaved lately triggered some memories.

Hitoha pours some tea.

HITOA

(CONT'D) I also remember having strange dreams when I was a young girl. Although now I've forgotten whose life I was dreaming about.

MITSUHA

Forgotten...

HITOA

Treasure the experience.

Dreams fade away after you wake up. Your mother and I both went through similar phases. Mitsuha warms her hands on the teacup.

MITSUHA

Sayaka and Tessie are shocked at Mitsuha's new haircut. The timeframe is before Mitsuha's hair reveal at the festival.

SAYAKA

Oh! What happened, Mitsuha?

TESSIE

Your...

your hair!

MITSUHA

(nonchalant) Oh, this. It looked better before, huh?

TESSIE

Tessie, trapped between Mitsuha and some boxes, blushes nervously.

TESSIE

cars are packed with people. It's rush hour, everyone is getting off work and going home. Mitsuha watches as the cars go past. Beat. Her eyes widen, a rush of excitement from within her. She races after a specific car as it passes her. The train finally comes to a stop and the doors open. A few people get off and Mitsuha squeezes in.

MITSUHA

Excuse me.

The subway doors close and the packed train takes off.

I'm always searching for something.

This feeling has possessed me for some time.

TAKI

I applied because...

--Taki walks to his next interview at a tall skyscraper.

TAKI

(CONT'D) The landscapes people live in... --He sits in front of a panel of executives.

TAKI

(CONT'D) You never know when Tokyo might disappear as well. So I want to help build landscapes that leave heartwarming memories... --He bows before leaving, yet another interview.

END MONTAGE.

136. INT. CAFE - DAY

Taki drinks tea with Shinta and Tsukasa, both 22 and in business suits. Tsukasa looks like an executive with his hair slicked to the side; we see a wedding band on his finger.

137. SHINTA

How many interviews have you had?

TAKI

(annoyed) I haven't kept track.

TSUKASA

Can't see you landing a job.

TAKI

You're one to- -

138. SHINTA

- -Maybe it's the suit.

TAKI

We're not that different!

139. SHINTA

I have two job offers.

TSUKASA

I have eight.

Rewritten by Jake Gao Taki scowls at his friends. His phone beeps and reads, "YOU HAVE A NEW MESSAGE".

140. EXT. SUBWAY STATION - LATER

Okudera waits for Taki at the same station where their first date took place.

TAKI (V.O.)

I'm not sure if I'm searching for a person or a place...

or if I'm searching for a job. Okudera sees Taki in his suit.

OKUDERA

Oh, you're job-hunting.

TAKI

I haven't had much luck.

Okudera studies Taki closely.

OKUDERA

Maybe it's the suit.

TAKI

Does it look that bad? Okudera giggles.

141. EXT. TOKYO - GOLDEN HOUR - MOMENTS LATER

People head home from their work. The two walk around city, catching up.

TAKI

Why did you want to meet?

OKUDERA

I was out here for work and figured I'd say hi.

A large mega screen displays the Itomori crater. The text reads, "8 YEARS SINCE THE COMET DISASTER".

OKUDERA

(CONT'D) We went to Itomori once, didn't we? You were still in high school, so it was... Original story by

TAKI

5 years ago.

OKUDERA

That long? Seems like I've forgotten a lot.

TAKI (V.O.)

I no longer remember much from back then.

Maybe we had a disagreement since the other two returned to Tokyo without me. I spent the night alone on some mountain. That's about all I remember. The two admire the Tokyo skyline and the Skytree.

TAKI (V.O.)

But at one point, I was inexplicably drawn to the events surrounding that comet.

Pedestrians passing by look up at the mega screens displaying the Itomori tragedy.

TAKI (V.O.)

Part of a comet destroyed a town in that disaster.

News footage from that day plays along text that reads, "EVACUATION OF RESIDENTS TO HIGH SCHOOL GROUNDS CONFIRMED".

TAKI (V.O.)

But most of the town's residents were miraculously unhurt.

More text reads, "NO DEATHS, 104 WOUNDED".

TAKI (V.O.)

The entire town happened to be holding an emergency drill and most of its residents were outside the blast zone.

Newspaper clippings with titles such as "RESIDENTS SAFE" and "DISASTER FORTOLD?"

TAKI (V.O.)

The sheer luck and coincidence sparked various rumors.

I read those articles intently back then.

event.

TAKI (V.O.)

What had caught my interest so much then is now a mystery to me.

CUT TO:

143. EXT. TOKYO - BRIDGE - NIGHT - PRESENT

The same bridge where Taki and Okudera ended their first date. Where Taki and Mitsuha tried calling each other. Taki and Okudera look out towards the city.

TAKI (V.O.)

I didn't even know anybody in that town.

OKUDERA

Thanks again, for today.

This is far enough. Okudera waves goodbye and we see a wedding band on her finger.

OKUDERA

(CONT'D) Don't worry, you'll find your happiness someday. Okudera leaves. Beat. Taki looks at his right hand.

TAKI (V.O.)

I feel like I'm always searching for something, for someone.

144. INT. CAFE - NIGHT

Taki flips through his planner for next week's job interviews. He faces the window; rain pours outside as he sips his coffee.

SAYAKA (O.S.)

TESSIE (O.S.)

They're all the same

SAYAKA (O.S.)

Shinto-style is nice, too...

TESSIE (O.S.)

I thought you wanted a wedding in a chapel.

SAYAKA (O.S.)

Oh, and Tessie...

Taki freezes, his back towards them. The camera reveals Sayaka and Tessie's faces. They are 25.
Sayaka has a cute, bob hairstyle and Tessie has a patchy beard. The two look over wedding plans while Tessie drinks coffee and Sayaka eats a small cake.

SAYAKA

(CONT'D) Lose the beard before the wedding and I'll lose three kilos.

TESSIE

You're eating cake.

SAYAKA

I'll start tomorrow.

Taki looks over at their table. It's empty. He sees the two of them leaving the cafe holding hands.

145. EXT. BRIDGE - NIGHT

A light snowfall. Taki walks across the almost-empty bridge. A few pedestrians walk back and forth. Taki passes a woman in a white overcoat and umbrella. Beat. Out of the corner of his eye, he notices a small braided cord tied around her hair. He pauses and looks back. The umbrella covers the back of her head. Beat. Original story by Makoto Shinkai123. Rewritten by Jake Gao Original story by Makoto Shinkai124. Rewritten by Jake Gao Taki turns away and continues walking. The woman turns back slightly, her face covered by the umbrella. She watches Taki walk away, then continues her own way.

146. INT. LIBRARY - NIGHT

Taki flips through a picture book of Itomori. We see the various landmarks we've come to recognize: Kadoiri Bridge, Miyamizu Shine, and Lake Itomori. The images draw Taki in.

TAKI

Why does the scenery of a town that no longer exists wring my heart so?

ANOTHER SUBWAY - CONTINUOUS

Mitsuha, by the door, gazes out the window.

Beat. Something catches her eye. On the other side of the glass, we see Taki as he turns towards Mitsuha. His train is going the other way. The two recognize each other...

TAKI (V.O.)

I was always searching...

MITSUHA (V.O.)

Searching...

...but their subways split off in opposition directions!

MITSUHA (V.O.)

...for someone!

151. EXT. SUGA SHRINE - STAIRS - MOMENTS LATER

Taki finds himself at the base of a tall flight of stairs with red rails, imbedded in the heart of a residential area. Beat. Taki looks up towards the top of the staircase. The camera tilts up to reveal Mitsuha at the top, looking down at him. They make eye contact, but Taki quickly breaks it and composes himself. He walks up the stairs nonchalantly. Mitsuha walks down the stairs, acting normal. The two pass each other without acknowledgment. A mixture of sadness, yearning, and pain spreads across Mitsuha's face. She lets out a shaky sigh. Taki reaches the top of the stairs. He stops. Beat. He takes a deep breath and turns around.

TAKI

Hey! Mitsuha freezes.
